Foreword

We are very pleased to share the annual progress report of SES for the year 2018-19. As in the past, the year was full of outcomes, new challenges and lessons learnt. SES continues to be a strong rooted organization working for most needy groups of society. In the year, SES progressed with many programmes in Uttar Pradesh.

On development landscapes, we notice several changes. Climate Change related processes have their impact and relationship with occurrence of flood and its impact. Increasing strength of community based organizations has certainly been a very positive factor with greater participation of marginalized groups. On gender side, there has been good progress yet there is scope of addressing gender gap at large.

Work at SES has increased yet the value of organization remains same which promotes inclusion, gender equality, community development with ecological balance.

Our sincere gratitude to our supporters, resource partners, volunteers. All they have helped us in our journey of learning. Our sincere gratitude also extended to SES team and communities that we work with.

Where We Work

Amongst all the remote areas in India, SES has started with one of the most challenging places for its work. Eastern Part of Uttar Pradesh which lags behind in social and economic indicator in comparison of developed part of state as well as country. SES works in 30 districts including state capital of Lucknow. It includes rural and urban areas of those districts.

Adolescents

ADOLESCENT EMPOWERMENT PROGRAMME

SES has been working with young people from last 13 years. Adolescent & Youth constitutes an important constituency for all SES interventions ranging from interventions on early marriage; domestic violence; sexual harassment in community. The focus on young people as change actors is deliberate. Adolescents are a critical stage of transition from childhood to maturity. The physical and emotional experiences, knowledge and skills acquired during this phase have important implications during adulthood.

Gender related challenges such as restrictions on mobility, lack of schooling or dropping out of school, early or child marriage, and violence. Even though girl's school enrolment and gross school enrolment have increased in the last three decades, girls' enrolment in higher levels of education is still very low. This is because increased female enrolment is compromised by persistently high rates of drop out and poor attendance of girls compatibly to boys.

In continuance to it, SES is working with young people and their empowerment, SES with support of Breakthrough and Asia Initiatives implementing programme on adolescent(11-19 years) In District Siddharthnagr and Lucknow city. While programme in Siddharthnagar focused on 21047 girls & boys. Programme in Lucknow city focuses on 500 girls in slums of Lucknow.

Programme is designed by considering empowerment framework as a conceptual tool to guide ground activities in the programme. Role of agency is important to define empowerment. The agency is based on four pillars: Socio-cultural, familial/interpersonal, psychological and economical.

It is found that young girls are not able to create social network due to restrictions on mobility in the name of “safety” They also have limited access in use of communication. Being a patriarchal society, girls are depended on male member(may be father or brother) The girls have aspiration but little choice to choose whether education or marriage. While assessing the need, SES team also realized that these girls have lower self esteem and self –efficacy due to gender prevalent norms in the community. Girls have little access to resources such as bicycle.

Our programme in Siddharthnagr is looking to break the stereotype gender norms and guide those girls to achieve things they wish. Empowerment not only related to individual but also to peace within family and community. The programme focus on :

- ✓ Investing in adolescent girls and boys to equip them with skills, confidence, and life option; through family, schools, technical and vocational education and training, and health, social and economic support system.
- ✓ Making infrastructure, services and technology accessible to girls and effective in meeting their needs for safety, connectivity and mobility.
- ✓ Facilitating adolescent girl’s engagement in civic, economic and political life and creating a positive attitude towards their empowerment among boys and girls.
- ✓ Continuing to advocate for making violence domains and also engaging men and boys in to the conversation.
- ✓ Strengthening data, measurement and the evidence based in relation to the empowerment of and violence against adolescent girls.
- ✓ Build the capacity and skills of peer educators among key area of empowerment

Social Credit Capitals (SoCCs) is a community currency for social good which acts as a catalyst for development without sole reliance on money. Social Capital is a community's propensity to undertake task for collective good. SoCCs are a community currency for social good that help communities. This Adolescent girl's empowerment program "UDAAN" is being run by Shohratgarh Environment Society (SES) with support of Asia initiative in Urban Slums of Lucknow, Capital city of Uttar Pradesh State in India. Women

Micro-Poultry Programme for women empowerment with SoCCs

48% of total populations in the country are women. They are less educated, unskilled and do not have any access to income generating activities. They get less food; their caloric intake is lower than that of male. The effect of extreme poverty falls most severely upon them and their children. Some of them are single mother or widow. At bottom of pyramid, they fall below poverty line and experience chronic food shortage due to their inability to participate in any income generation activities. Poverty has forced most of these women out of their house in search of work as day labor. Unfortunately female wage rate is also less than male wage rate in India. Hunger and poverty are endemic in rural a communities in India b women and young girls who constitute the most significant group of people here lack capital and capacity building to invest in sustainable income generation practices. Poultry farming especially by this group of women could be a very beneficial programme. Poultry does not require much land and also do not bear high cost to run. The programme “Samridhi” gave excellent benefit to the poorest group of 498 women of the district Siddharthnagar.

The aim of project was:

- Increase in income of women involved in poultry farming.
- Increase in knowledge of women on financial literacy, reproductive and sexual health, sanitation, hygiene, gender equality etc. through regular interaction.
- Increase in opportunity for women through additional income generated from poultry farming.
- Targeted women shall enable to communicate, negotiate and resolve conflict to address gender discrimination and violence.

- SHG Meeting
- Regular SHG Saving

- Financial & Business Literacy Training
- Chick distribution
- Celebration of International Days

SoCCs(Social Capital Credit) are a community currency for social good which acts as a catalyst for development without the sole reliance on money. The philosophical basis of SoCCs is the Theory of Positive Psychology, in which SoCCs enhance interpersonal connections and instill a sense of larger meaning and purpose in life, leading to happiness and well being. The earning of SoCCs by women in the community empowers and enables them to make decisions that impact themselves and their family. It also helps to build their confidence and to become active and engaged member of the community. In the programme, each women redeemed their earned points with 20 chicks each .

Sustainable Open Defecation Free through womens' leadership

The Indian economy is on high growth trajectory .However it ranked 131 out of 188 nations in UNDP's Human Development Index 2016 .But its performance in terms of improving quality life for its citizen is is not consistent with growth story .While different states have their unique strength. They face challenges in improving health , education, basic infrastructure etc. The same is applicable to districts. Some are doing good, some are lagging on social indicators. As part of the Chief Secretary's initiative to bring convergence among the development agencies in the state. In this context UNICEF partnered with SES to support the efforts of the state in the Aspirational Districts programme (ASP). The state of UP has eight aspirational districts, namely Bahraich, Balrampur, Shravasti, Sidharthnagar, Chandauli, Sonbhadra, Fatehpur and Chitrakoot.The Programme Focus on 6 Aspirational districts(Bahraich, Balrampur, Shravasti, Chandauli, Sonbhadra and Chitrakoot) and 1 Non-aspirational districts(Sitapur)

Objectives of programme are given below

- Capacity building 200 women leaders (including elected ward members) from 8 GPs in gender sensitive leadership through agency building and conscientization processes to engage effectively in taking action towards sustainable ODF community.
- Documentation of best practices for knowledge sharing.

ACTIVITY

Taking cognizance of the context given above, the proposal aims to support the ODF sustainability through strengthened women participation and engagement. The intervention area will be 1 GP in each of the following districts – Bahraich, Balrampur, Shravasti, Chandauli, Sonbhadra, &Chitrakoot and 2 GPs in Sitapur district.

UNICEF has already supported capacity building of GP level task force on GPDP in these GPs (except in Sitapur district). The aim is to orient them towards the process of GPDP preparation. This process involved participation of men and women community members and leaders (ward members) at various stages and their aspirations and development priorities have been accorded significant recognition in terms of plans for overall development of different segments of the communities.

However, this process has also brought out some limitations, particularly in relation to advancing women's (and girl child) agency and the transformative potential for influencing decisions in their lives, impacting overall development indicators at the GP level. This was mainly because development planning process has limitations and women's participation was limited to physical presence in the training. In the PRA exercises too, their participation was constrained very conspicuously by lack of agency and self-assertion among women members despite being elected ward members. .

It is from this perspective that a comprehensive leadership and ownership components are being envisaged for furthering GPDP. Particularly, the focus will be on enhancing women's agency for transformative leadership at the panchayat level. Transformation includes norms and practices that affect their lives, lives of children as well. This is necessary to ensure that a meaningful culmination of the preparation of GPDP is achieved vis-a vis active engagement of women members, gender sensitive leadership and positive changes in the norms and practices that govern women's lives in the ten GPs, especially son preference and economic participation. This is also a crucial step to multiply and sustain the development gains that accrue to the community through GPDP.

The proposed intervention requires systematic engagement with women and girl children to build their agency and engage in a process of conscientization and mobilization so that they transform

Output

- Completed capacity building on leadership among 200 elected women members and local women leaders.
- 'Handholding support to Districts to scale up GPDP implementation and optimizing use of social.
- 'Women leaders are equipped with handbook on their engagement to strengthen implementation of GPDP

Environment

India has 2.4% of the world's total geographic area and is home to 17% of the world's population. Like any developing nation, India too is faced with challenges of growing population, growing needs and demands for economic development, judicious management of the land resources, clean water, food etc. Pressure on natural resources has increased particularly in view of the advent of the new forces of consumerism, materialistic value- systems and the obsession with short – term profits. While on one side there is shameless profligacy and waste in consumption. On the other hand, there are several billion people who do not have enough to consume, deprivations of food, energy, water, shelter, clothing, and other basic needs. Therefore, there is a need for optimal utilisation and sharing of resources between different strata of society to ensure sustainability. The Green Action Week 2018 promoted awareness on sustainable consumption in city of Lucknow. The campaign focused to promote the sustainable consumption and production patterns which align with Sustainable Development Goals 12 and also to raise awareness on food, water and electricity consumption and waste among Lucknow dwellers. Lucknow, with over 28 million people, are considered as middle and upper middle class, who are neither behaviorally habituated nor oriented on sustainable consumption and continue to exploit limited natural resources. Consumption of food, electricity and water is on the rise, as well as paper/plastic consumption and waste generation.

The aim of the consultation was to advocate for a shift in policy towards sustainable consumption and optimum consumption More Than 40 representatives from civil society/consumer organisations, farmers’ group, restaurant owners, and media and government departments shall participate. There shall be good coverage in the Media as well.
- There were launch of India’s first online sharing platform i.e. u-share.in. It is the platform where people can share and swap unused but useful items among them.
- Think of all those things that are collecting dust in attic, garage, cupboards or bookshelves, under-used. One can share those items to needed one. We will develop an online platform where people can share the unwanted but useful item even the campaign ends. The purpose of online sharing platform will be to reduce the negative impact of goods by sharing rather than buying. Moreover, one can save money by sharing and one have access to lots of stuff with this platform. We are looking to promote an alternative to disposable culture.
- There shall be publication of various Information, Education and Communication material. It shall be various posters, stickers and leaflets highlighting the benefits of sustainable consumption and sharing community.
